Report on Financial Awareness & Consumer Training on 31.05.2025

Young people around the world are becoming financial consumers earlier in life than in the past and making financial decisions (such as taking out credit cards or taking out school loans) that, if not handled carefully, might have long-term effects. Youth must learn how to set financial objectives, steer clear of potential pitfalls, and know where to turn for help when required as they get ready to graduate and enter the job, which will include greater financial responsibilities. FACT (Financial Awareness and Consumer Training), a program created especially to give financial education to recent graduates and postgraduates, was launched by NCFE in response to these needs.

In view of the above, Nikhil Banga Sikshan Mahavidyalaya organized an awareness programme entitled “Financial Awareness & Consumer Training” through online mode on 31.05.2025 through virtual mode by Mr Sujit Mukherjee to aware the faculty members, students of both B.Ed & B.P.Ed department and staff members. Mr Mukherjee from NSE discussed about how to protect personal profile. He also stressed on different aspects of financial management as well as investment feature in front of the audience followed by feedback from the participants.
