Report on Field Survey to Bikash Special school on 14.07.2026

Introduction: The teacher trainee of Nikhil Banga Sikshan Mahavidyalaya went to Bikash Special School in Bankura as part of our educational field visit program. This reputable school, run by Bikash Society, offers education, therapy, and career training to kids with a variety of disabilities, such as autism, cerebral palsy, intellectual disabilities, speech and hearing impairments, and multiple disabilities. For more than 20 years, the organization has worked for the welfare and rehabilitation of children with exceptional needs.

Visit : The trainers engaged with the students, instructors, therapists, and support personnel throughout the visit. They learned practical lessons about inclusive education, classroom management, behavioral assistance, and the value of tailored educational planning by watching classroom activities. In order to help students become more autonomous and self-sufficient, the vocational training unit illustrated how students are encouraged to acquire life skills and occupational competences. The field trip gave participants invaluable insight into the potential and difficulties associated with special education. It improved the trainees' comprehension of inclusivity, empathy, patience, and the duties of educators who work with students who have special needs. The tour also brought home how important it is for educators, therapists, parents, and the community to work together to ensure the overall development of children with disabilities.

Conclusion: During a feedback session at the end of the visit, the trainees thanked the Bikash Special School personnel for their kind hospitality and for sharing their experiences. All things considered, the educational tour was incredibly enlightening, motivating, and enriching, giving the trainees valuable insights into inclusive and special education approaches.
